5TH REGISTRATION

To be held in local board office in C. C. Egan building, West Liberty, on June 30, 1942. All men born on or after January 1, 1922, and on or before June 30, 1924, will be registered in fifth registration.

LOCAL BOARD

WANT A JOB?

The War Board of Morgan county has announced that they are assisting the United States Employment service in offering to the people of this county an opportunity for training and employment in various industries vital to the successful war effort.

Horace S. Cleveland, special representative of the U.S.E.S., recently met with the war board and other citizens of our county and explained in detail the various openings that await skilled workers. He explained that any workers with reasonable skill in various occupations may be referred immediately to jobs, while those with little or no training can be given the necessary training and instruction that will fit them for positions in war plants and related industries. The employment service is the agency designated to supply workers for all types of war work including the U. S. Signal Corps and farm employment.

The war board feels that this is a persons in our county who are not definite opportunity for all work-age fully employed or get well-paid employment. It emphasizes that it is the patriotic duty of everyone to be employed in these critical times.

The Morgan county war board has announced a mass meeting at the court house on Friday, June 26, 1942, at 10 a.m. C. W. Time. Everyone interested in getting a job is requested to attend. Representatives of the employment service will be on hand to discuss the opportunities for employment and to take applications for work and training.

WHY "THEY"?

Why do we say "they," the government, are doing this and so—especially when something does not suit us or comes up to our expectation?

This United States is a government "by the people."

We will be more helpful when our attitude is: God helping us. WE must find a better way to do this. WE must exemplify the highest form of Christian democracy.—E. M. in Christian Science Monitor.

TYPISTS NEEDED

There is an urgent need for stenographers and typists for Washington, D. C.

Before any airplanes, tanks, battleships, or submarines can be constructed, paper after paper of specifications, orders, instructions, orders, etc., must be typed. Every one of these weapons of war exists on paper before it exists in reality.

We at home must not let our fighters down, and to the extent that help to our fighting forces is being delayed because of inability to get the necessary paper work done, we are letting them down.

A stenographer-typist examination will be held at 1:00 p.m. each Wednesday and Friday at Morehead high school, Morehead, Ky. Immediate appointments in Washington, D. C. to the positions of sr. typist or jr. stenographer at $1440 per annum will be offered to those passing the examination. There are also a limited number of sr. stenographer positions open at $1620 per annum, for those who successfully meet all the requirements.

See or call Mrs. A. F. Ellington, Morehead, Ky., for an appointment for your examination and full details. If you are interested, act now. Your country needs you!

Patrick Reunion

A large attendance is expected at the annual reunion of the Patrick family, meeting in Salyersville on Saturday and Sunday, June 27 and 28, according to predictions made by Dr. Wellington Patrick, Lexington, Kentucky, president of the organization. The reunion in 1941 was attended by more than one thousand Patricks and their relatives, and Dr. Patrick has stated that the outlook for 1942 is even better in some respects.

We Still Face the Task

"The Task Committed to the Disciples" is the thought conveyed to readers in our Sunday school lesson today. The task met with opposition and unbelief, and the same problems are facing the churches of today. By reading the lesson you will be able to thoroughly understand your minister at church Sunday.

This May Be News to You

Did you know that an Illinois representative tried to sell the president on government sponsored lotteries? Well, we didn't either until after reading the Merry Go Round column in the Courier. Guess Will Rogers was right—all you know is what you read in the papers.

More Time in the Garden

From Midway to Germany our News Analysis takes you each week on a word picture tour of the war, giving you brief happenings of the battle fronts. This feature is just the thing for the reader who wants to read the war summary and then have time to help the wife in the garden.

Following the Funnies

The comics in the Courier are cartoons created by widely known cartoonists. You'll find the antics in the comics interesting and true to life. Children and grownups alike follow the funnies each week. It's getting to be a habit to read this paper. In other words, sort of a family affair.

Is This News to You?

A well known publisher once told us that a $500 fire wasn't much news for a great metropolitan daily, for such happens every day in the big city. However, he went on, if a little girl risks her life in the fire to save a 39 cent doll, well, that's news. But the Courier is a weekly serving the community and country where news of your friends and neighbors gets recognition. This is service you daily overlooks. Now, had you ever thought of this?

ISOLATIONISTS NOT WANTED

Hamilton Fish, Jr., nationally known because of his "isolationist" position, has decided to run for reelection to Congress in the State of New York.

Mr. Fish defends himself by saying that since Pearl Harbor, he has supported every war measure and that he is for all-out war to final victory. The mistake that Mr. Fish makes is one that is being duplicated by congressmen all over the country. Most of those who have weak records count on their votes since Pearl Harbor to reelect them.

Let us assume, in considering the case of isolationists and pacifists, that they are all loyal and patriotic citizens. Even so, the voters should leave them at home. The record discloses that while their patriotism may be one hundred percent their judgment on world trends has been one hundred percent wrong. The issue for voters to determine is not based on a question of patriotism. It involves a question of intelligence in appraising world forces and in formulating policies to preserve the peace of this country. When the issue is thus stated, the record of isolationists and pacifists does not deserve public support at the present time.

It may be admitted, we think, that the isolationists and pacifists are for all-out war as long as the present struggle lasts. They know what the people want.

When the national emergency is over, however, the isolationists and pacifists will revert to their former views. Once more, they will menace our foreign policy, designed to preserve and protect the peace of this country. It would be risky business for the American people to handicap congress with pacifists and isolationists in the post-war period, when many grave problems must be decided for the future.—Estill Herald.

RUBBER SALVAGE

President Roosevelt has directed that an all out nation wide scrap rubber campaign begins at 12:01 a.m. Monday, June 15, and continues until June 30. This campaign will be conducted in each county and city under the general direction of the county or city salvage director and his committees.

The nation's oil industry is called upon to play a major role in this drive in cooperation with all others who participate. Each filling station and each bulk station will be notified by the petroleum industry of Kentucky that during this two weeks' period they will purchase rubber at one cent per pound. The oil industry will provide trucks to haul the scrap rubber to the bulk station or other concentration points which will then turn it over to the Rubber Reserve Finance Corporation.

The above telegram was sent to Yandal Wraether, chairman of the Morgan county salvage committee, by G. Lee McClain, executive secretary of salvage work in Kentucky.

It is hoped that Morgan county with the rest of the country, will respond wholeheartedly to this campaign. Gather up all the old rubber you can find and take it TODAY to your nearest filling station to sell at 1c a pound.

To ascertain your moral character, compare your slavery to foolish and useless amusements and pastimes with your zeal for useful service.

HENSON

Paul B. Henson was born Sept. 3, 1907, in Hill county, Texas; died June 11, 1942, at Richmond, Ky., aged 34 years, 9 months, and 8 days.

He joined the Christian church at the age of 15 and was baptized at Wirt, Okla. For the last nine years Paul had been a resident of West Liberty. Since coming here he made his way into the hearts of the people. Those who knew him best loved him most. He was interested in the social progress of the community.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lula Henson, West Liberty; his father, E. H. Henson, Cincinnati, O.; one sister, Mrs. Jewell Monroe, Tonkawa, Okla.; one brother, Howell Henson, Cincinnati, Ohio; and a host of devoted friends.

Funeral services were held at the Christian church at West Liberty Sunday afternoon by Revs. Harlen Murphy, Kenneth Clay, and Roscoe Brong. Burial was in the Index cemetery.

WORKERS NEEDED

The Pikeville office of the United States employment service has received another order for 2400 workers needed immediately by one of the large airplane factories in the east, according to J. Hayden Roache, manager. Men from 17 to 50, not in 1-A draft classification, with at least 6 months experience using small hand tools, working on or assembling metal parts, may qualify, Mr. Roache said. Persons who have worked as an automobile mechanic, refrigeration mechanic, bicycle repairman, typewriter serviceman, auto service station attendant, or similar occupations, should submit their applications immediately thru the Pikeville office. Manager Roache added.

The office also has an order for 700 journeymen carpenters needed in the construction of a large army camp in western Kentucky. The age limit is 60 years. All carpenters who are unemployed, or who are not working at their highest level of skill, should report to the Pikeville office immediately.

Manager Roache announced that the local office is now open from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Saturday. The personnel of the office is concentrating first on locating these precious skills required to make planes, ships, and guns and second, directing these skilled workers, no matter where located. All other local office services are scrapped for the duration, Mr. Roache said.

LADIES' AID MEETS

The Ladies' Aid Society of Cannel City Union church met with Mrs. Cleve Stacy June 4. Rev. Kenneth Clay of West Liberty was in charge of the devotional, reading Psalm 1, and gave a very interesting talk, and then offered prayer. One song was sung, "Sweet By and By." Much work was accomplished during the afternoon.

Members present were Mrs. Cleve Stacy, Mrs. W. T. Stamper, Mrs. M. H. Ferguson, Mrs. J. D. Whitaker, Mrs. Inez Donovan, Miss Wilma Faulkner, Rev. Kenneth Clay of West Liberty, and Mrs. Arnold Patrick and little daughter Ann Carolyn, of Lexington.

After a pleasant afternoon we adjourned to meet with Mrs. M. H. Ferguson June 18.

Training for Victory

By Rufus T. Strohm

Dean, International Correspondence Schools

IN the last world war two civilian workers were needed for every man at the front. This left five men free for non-war industry and commerce. In this war it is estimated that every man in the armed services must be backed up by at least seven in civilian war industry.

This is the ratio used in authoritative circles. For every man in the armed services, seven must be working war machines in the shipyards, on the farms, and in the offices.

An army officer has said that if one could fire a .50-caliber gun for one hour steadily, the cost for ammunition per hour would be $5,015, or the productive labor at $1 per hour of 5,000 men.

These statements give some idea of the tremendous job confronting the industrial workers of America. This is a war of production. Production can be executed only by skilled men using highly efficient machines.

It took the automobile industry 25 years to reach an annual volume of three and one-half billion dollars. In two years, or slightly more, the nation is expecting the aircraft industry to produce at the rate of five billion dollars.

No other nation in the world could hope to attain the production goal set for vital war industries. It is the supreme challenge to a democratic form of government—the challenge is to the self-governing worker. It is up to the individual.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Jap Naval Losses Off Midway Island Strengthen U. S. Position in Pacific; Terrific Bombing Attacks by British Stun Nazi's War Effort in England

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

MIDWAY: Mele

"Pearl Harbor has now been partially avenged. Vengeance will not be complete until Japanese sea power as been reduced to impotence. We have made substantial progress in that direction."

With these blunt, stirring words, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the United States naval forces in the Pacific, announced a decisive United States naval victory at Midway Island. In a remarkable demonstration of the coordinated power of the three American services—navy, army and marines—a Japanese invasion fleet was repulsed with the greatest losses of the current war.

From 14 to 17 Japanese warships were sunk or damaged, according to early reports. Included were two or three aircraft carriers sunk and one or two lost; three battleships damaged, four of six cruisers damaged, three transports damaged and one destroyer sunk. Continuing attacks on the fleeing enemy made it impossible to state whether the ships bombed in pursuit had been damaged previously.

At the conclusion of the four-day action, Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the American fleet, hinted that the United States has a chance to knock out Japan as a sea power. The battle, he said, may determine the outcome of the war in the Pacific.

Hawaii, he said, "must be held at all costs," because it is the keystone to the entire Pacific defense system. Midway, 1,312 miles from Pearl Harbor, is a vital outpost in the Hawaiian defense.

U-BOAT MENACE: On the Run?

Axis submarines operating along the Eastern seaboard have been driven out into the Atlantic, according to Chairman Carl Vinson (Georgia) of the house naval affairs committee.

His disclosure came in a formal statement which added that the "anti-submarine warfare organization has passed through its period of growing pains and is now well established and functioning effectively."

"In dealing with submarines we have a tough and clever enemy," the statement said, "and it does not pay to be unduly optimistic. However, the fact remains that in the last few weeks the submarine has largely withdrawn from our eastern seaboard and is operating farther at sea."

"The committee has full confidence that we shall defeat the submarine."

V-MAIL:

For Soldiers

U. S. army units in England and Northern Ireland are now using a new and unique mail system for contacts with the United States. Known as V-mail, this system provides that letters may be dispatched to a central station, censored and then photographed on small rolls of microfilm.

Under army direction these rolls are then sent to the United States where they are developed and photostatic copies are presented to the postal service and sent through regular mails to the addressee.

Value of plan lies in the fact that microfilm saves cargo space in eliminating mail shipments.

POISON GAS:

Another Warning

Within a month after Winston Churchill had warned Germany that any use of gas warfare by the Nazis would be met with the same tactics, President Roosevelt has warned Japan that if she persists in using gas against China the U. S. will retaliate in "kind and full measure."

This statement by the President came as a confirmation of reports that Japan was using noxious gases in battles with the Chinese.

SEA RAID: On Australia

The cities of Sydney and Newcastle on Australia's southeast coast were shelled by Japanese forces in the first sea raid on that country's mainland since the beginning of the war.

Termed "nuisance" raids by General MacArthur's headquarters, these first attacks caused little damage and there were few casualties. Submarines were used for the attack.

At Sydney the shells whistled over the city so fast it was impossible to estimate their number. Newcastle was shelled for 30 minutes. Both cities were blacked out and residents hustled to their air raid shelters.

The attacks came only a week after four of the enemy's midget submarines were destroyed as they attempted a sortie into Sydney's harbor. Also in the same week three and possibly four other subs were destroyed in the southwest Pacific.

Increased submarine activity off the lower Australian coast was believed to be aimed at cutting Allied communications and supply lines as well as an attempt to divert United Nations' naval units from the more major scenes of action, I.E., between Alaska and Hawaii.

SECOND FRONT: In Germany's Air

The stunning effect of the monster RAF bombing raid upon Cologne became known to the world when the first newspapers from that historic Rhineland city reached neutral territory.

Cologne, as its people knew it, is forever lost, according to the dispatches. Whole quarters of the town are empty, and a Stockholm newspaper, quoting a German dispatch, reported that all the property of at least 10,000 persons had been destroyed completely. The central district of the city was ruined and damage reached far into the city's outskirts.

The Koelnische Zeitung, Cologne newspaper, said:

"Those who survived the night . . . and who on the morrow looked at the city were fully aware that they had bade farewell forever to their Cologne, because the damage is enormous and because the integral part of the character and even the traditions of the city are gone forever."

While the Cologne bombing was followed by a 1,000-bomber attack on Essen, home of the great Krupp armament plants, a complete picture of the damage to that industrial center is lacking. However, England was jubilant over these "second front" activities. The initial raid on Essen was followed the next night by a second "mopping up" raid, employing an estimated 400 bombers.

BRIEFS:

DAUGHTERS: Cautioning that severe labor shortages may develop, Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard has urged rural families to keep their daughters on the farm to help with war food production.

INDEPENDENT—Despite Adolf Hitler's surprise visit to Finland, a government spokesman stated that the nation would "continue to steer a strictly independent course."

LOSS—After two months of operations over Burma, the U. S. air forces have announced the loss of their first heavy bomber in that area. Meanwhile they have been doing a terrific job of blasting Japanese offensive plans.

FOOD—Approximately 1,300 factories employing 20,000 workers will be closed by orders originating in Vichy, France. The workers will be diverted to a labor pool to man farms expected to produce food reserves for next winter and to provide volunteers for labor in German war factories.

WAAC ENLISTMENTS

Thousands of determined women, eager to don the WAAC uniform, are driving WAAC officials wacky.

The campaign for enlistments in the Women's Army Auxiliary corps has succeeded too well. Maj. Oveta Culp Hobby and her chief lieutenants, Mrs. Arthur Woods and Mrs. Genevieve Forbes Herrick, have a bear by the tail and they know it.

Sad truth is that there cannot possibly be more than 500 WAAC officer-candidates taken in now. No "auxiliaries," that is, non-officer WAAC's, can be recruited until the officers have been trained, possibly around September 15. The greatest number of WAAC's that can be taken in this year is estimated at 25,000, and all of these will be subjected to a minimum of four weeks' training. This leaves some 275,000 disappointed would-be WAAC's out of an estimated registration of 300,000.

Toughest job of all falls upon the chief recruiting officers in the nine army corps areas. It is their job to sort out the WAAC registrants and select the lucky women. Those chosen then must face a series of very stiff aptitude tests.

BOND LOTTERY

Rep. Adolph Sabath of Illinois, genial chairman of the house rules committee, wasn't able to sell the President on government-sponsored lotteries when he called at the White House. However, he was given a novel idea on how to use the lottery principle in the sale of war bonds.

Sabath contended that a legalized lottery, conducted monthly by the treasury, would greatly aid in relieving taxation and raise billions in revenue for the war effort.

Under a bill he is sponsoring, the Illinoisian said, the government would realize approximately $875,000,000 from the sale of a billion $1 tickets, whereas if it borrowed this amount at 3 per cent for 20 years, the interest alone would total $525,000,000.

"It wouldn't be the first time our government has held a lottery," argued Sabath. "We did it in 1776 to help finance the Revolutionary war."

"Yes, I know," said the President, adding that he doubted the advisability of lotteries at this time because of the strong opposition of religious groups. Instead, he proposed a compromise.

"Why not apply your lottery ideas to the sale of war bonds," he suggested. "The Belgian government held bond lotteries for a number of years."

SHAKY CHINA

Chinese leaders in Washington are not shouting it from the housetops, but behind closed doors they are doing some tough talking to the effect that an increasing number of Chinese are getting discouraged about the war and would like to see some kind of appeasement with Japan. Chinese leaders give this as the reason why China must have airplanes—and have them immediately.

The Chinese don't demand a lot of planes. But they do say that even a small fraction of the munitions going to Russia would work wonders in bolstering China.

Here is the Chinese picture now being presented to U. S. war strategists. After five years of war, the Chinese are war-weary. Most discouraging thing is the ironical fact that the Chinese are worse off now, with Allies, than they were before, fighting alone. The Chinese were delighted after Pearl Harbor because it meant they had a powerful ally against Japan. But now after six months of it, they almost wish they had been left to hold out alone.

That is why recent reverses in Burma and along the China coast have shaken Chinese determination down to the foundation. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is not weakening. But many Chinese are, especially the well-to-do class, the people who yearn for restoration of normal business, who would rather have a chance to make money and live peacefully even under the Japs than to pay the frightful cost of continued war.

Meanwhile, Japan seems determined to crush China now. Apparently the U. S. bombing raids on Tokyo scared the Japs sick, made them see the danger of nearby Chinese bases, caused them to shift their strategy to cleaning up China ahead of other warfronts.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Heard in the navy press room: A sailor after 20 years' service retired with a sizeable fortune of $60,000. He amassed this sum through careful investment, enterprise, initiative—and the death of an uncle who left him $59,000.

The war department's service of supply shortly will release a new movie called, "The Army Behind the Army," showing America's vast war production machine. The picture will be shown in defense plants throughout the country.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

Four-in-One

THIS one helpful pattern shows you how to make four garments for your little girl! A button-front frock, overalls, rompers, and a bonnet. Each one of them cute and original in design and as easy as pie to make. Can't you see them all in a dotted swiss, a quaint calico or checked gingham trimmed with ric rac braid—can you imagine a more charming wardrobe? Useful for play hours and dress-up times both, this set is a welcome aid for the clothes problem for small one-to-sixers.

Pattern No. 8925 is in sizes 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. Size 2 set requires 3½ yards 35-inch material, 3 yards ric rac braid. Send your order to:

Buttoned Bodice.

ISN'T it a treat—to find a dress of such smart appearance which is at the same time, original and different in its treatment? The single button bodice is the trick which distinguishes this model from all others. The silhouette, too, is gracefully slimming and the front panel achieves a skirt slenderness which you will find is very flattering. Make this dress in rayon crepes or lovely cotton prints.

Pattern No. 8129 is in sizes 32 to 46. Size 34, short sleeve, takes 4¼ yards 35-inch material.

Galoshes should be stuffed with paper and wrapped separately when storing. The idea is to keep the rubber surfaces from touching as summer's heat will vulcanize rubber.

To wash rayons use mild, lukewarm suds, squeezing them through the material. Don't rub or wring the garment. Iron it slightly damp on the wrong side.

If cake is very hard it can be made into a delicious pudding by steaming 30 minutes in double boiler and serving hot with any desired sauce—hard, creamy, foamy or fruit.

Painting the bottoms, inside and out, of garbage cans prolongs their service.

Copper and brass utensils are dangerous to use if not kept perfectly clean. Rub spot with hot vinegar and salt, lemon rind and salt, tomato juice, rhubarb juice or hot sour milk.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for June 21

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE TASK COMMITTED TO THE DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 28:16-20; Mark 16:14-20; Luke 24:46-53.
GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.—Mark 16:15.

Witnesses of the resurrection—that privilege of the disciples carried with it the responsibility of declaring the good news of completed redemption to all the nations of the earth. In doing so they were destined to meet opposition and unbelief, to feel weariness and to know discouragement. So the Lord, before leaving this world for His present ministry at the Father's right hand (Mark 16:19; Heb. 7:26), prepared them by giving them a divine commission, which they accepted and acted upon with the assurance of His power and blessing. The lesson is summarized in the words, "Go ye" (Matt. 28:19); "They went forth" (Mark 16:20); "And He . . . blessed them" (Luke 24:50).

I. "Go Ye" (Matt. 28:16-20).
God's plans are never small plans. World evangelization, nothing less, was the goal He had in mind, and to which Christ commissioned this little group of humble folk who were His disciples. It was not only a great commission, but a daring one.

Back of such marching orders there must be authority and power—and Christ had them (v. 18)—all power and all authority. No need to measure or compare, for His is the ultimate and complete authority. This is the One who said, "Come unto me"; then, "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men," and who now says, "Go." If we heed one command, should we not absolutely obey the others?

The message is His message, the gospel (Mark 16:15). It is the only message! The witnesses of Christ are not called to educate and civilize the heathen without winning them to Christ. To do so is only to prepare stronger and more skillful enemies of all that we count holy.

But a great program means nothing if it is not carried out; a great commission is only words unless it is accepted and obeyed. We read of the disciples that—

II. "They Went Forth" (Mark 16:14-20).

The call and command are given in this passage. The power is made clear and somewhat in detail, but the significant thing is that they actually went forth to preach.

The response of these early Christians was immediate and enthusiastic. Would that such a spirit had characterized the church through all the generations since then, for if it had, the commission would long since have been carried out. Dr. R. A. Torrey has estimated that if everyone in a church of 2,000 were to win one soul a year, and each convert win one soul each year, the world would be evangelized in less than 35 years.

But while on the whole the church has failed, there have been valiant souls all down through its history who have given themselves to the business of soul-winning. With them, as with these of the first century, the secret is ever "The Lord working with them." We read that as He was leaving this earth and His disciples, He lifted up His hands—

III. "And He . . . Blessed Them" (Luke 24:49-53).

God has always honored those who in faith have obeyed His command. The whole history of missionary endeavor bears eloquent testimony to that fact.

Sometimes we marvel at the success of a great movement, such as that founded by John Wesley. The answer is that God found a man, or a little group of men or women, willing to take Him at His word and step out in earnest purpose to obey Him. "For forty years John Wesley carried on his mission of canvassing for Christ 'as a parliamentary candidate canvasses for votes in his constituency in the strenuous three weeks before an election'" (Arnold's Commentary). Little wonder that with the blessing of Christ upon his work brings joy to many even to this day.

Note that the disciples who had been made sad and despondent by their parting with Christ at Calvary now went away in joy. The joy of the Lord is the strength of the Christian worker. It gives him abundant grace and power in the hour of need and makes him a fruitful servant.

A Warm Soul
I saw once lying side by side in a great workshop, two heads made of metal. The one was perfect; all the features of a noble, manly face came out clear and distinct in their lines of strength and beauty; in the other, scarcely a single feature could be recognized; it was all marred and spoiled. "The metal had been let grow a little too cool, sir," said the man who was showing it to me. I could not help thinking how true that was of many a form more precious than metal.—Canon Teignmouth Shore.

An Idea or Two

Thinking is a dangerous business.

Big words do not always convey big thoughts.

Christianity needs practicing as well as preaching.

Be sure the information you get is not misinformation.

Not all jokes are printed—some of them have two legs.

Corrected version: A vacation a day keeps work away.

Look out for bargains—it often pays you to miss them.

This is the time of year that going in your garden gets tough.

If a shortage develops in cosmetics, the faces of the ladies will turn pale.

An offensive spirit can be a dangerous affair unless you are properly prepared.

The publicity itch gets a lot of people sooner or later, but it usually gets them.

If King Richard were alive today, he would probably offer his kingdom for a ship.

Never bother about trying to appear smart; put your energy on being smart.

Going to church may not be your habit, but it would be a good habit for you to have.

Just because a man is a good sport does not necessarily mean that he is a good man.

If all the commencement oratory were repeated every week, it would still make no difference.

Buy your goods from the merchants of West Liberty. When you need help, you won't get it by mail.

Unfortunately, the average school child does not mind the closing of schools for vacation days.

What kind of war would we be waging if nobody else were fighting Japan, Germany, and Italy?

If you get some extra cash these days, the best thing you can do with it is to pay your debts in full.

This is a good time of the year to begin a campaign against mosquitoes, weeds, and other noxious growths.

As we look at this war we wonder why somebody doesn't let the Italian people know they are in the struggle.

About a year from now some automobilists will begin to understand the wisdom of driving slowly to conserve tires.

Neither wealth nor position makes a man a gentleman; neither does poverty prevent a man from being a gentleman.

The League of Nations made all nations equal by agreement; there is a trend today to make all peoples equal by fiat.

It might be well to survey the organized peace propaganda that lulled Americans to sleep in the face of grave dangers.

Air Marshal Harris, of the R. A. F., says that the war can be won by bombers and he is out to use Germany as a proving ground.

Don't worry too much about the fate of religion; it has taken more on the chin in the past than it will have to take in the future.

There may not be a connection, but some Americans are doing their best to circulate the tripe that comes in from Berlin and Rome.

Short letters to the Courier on interesting subjects will be printed, but this does not mean that we will print anything and everything written.

Advertising is effective, during war, just as in days of peace; the smart business man in West Liberty can capitalize upon any condition.

Whenever a profession degenerates into a money-hunting expedition the public will understand the situation and judge its members accordingly.

Talk of peace is probably intelligent at this time but what the world will look like, after the axis is defeated, can hardly be visualized today.

What has become of the persons who said that Germany was certain to win the war and that even the United States could not prevent a Nazi triumph?

Readers' Opinions

Letters for this column should be brief and to the point. Lengthy articles may be cut down at the discretion of the editor. Writers must sign their own names for the information of the editor, but letters will be published over pen names when so desired and requested by the writers.

A prize of six months' subscription is being given for the best letter each week, limited to 200 words or less. Prize letter this week is the first one printed below.

IN TANK PARADES

Editor Courier:

I am now stationed in Co. H, 35th Armd. Regt., Pine Camp, N. Y., in U. S. Army. I was inducted Feb. 11. I wish to say to my many friends in Kentucky and elsewhere, turn your radio on June 16 for a tank parade in New York City, Madison Square Garden. I'll be driving a half tank in parade. I wish my friends and relatives could be there.

I also will be in a tank parade in Pittsburgh, Pa., June 21.

Oh boys, do we have good times Sunday. I will just mention a few things I have had for dinner today: chicken and dressing, mashed potatoes and peas, strawberries and ice cream, sweet milk and cake, and many other good things I did not mention.

Well, as I will say to you all, I have made good grades on everything that has been assigned me to do. I have never had one hour extra duty. I will write again in a short time.

Success to the Courier. Pray for us soldier boys.

JOINS MARINES

Louisville, June 15, 1942.—Lonnie Gilbert Bailey, 21, son of Mrs. Virgie Bailey of White Oak, Kentucky, was enlisted during the past week in the United States marine corps. He, together with several other young Kentuckians, departed Louisville the same day he was enlisted for the marine training base at San Diego, Calif.

Typical of so many patriotic mountaineers, he has chosen to fight with the leathernecks in the defense of the stars and stripes.

To all of you young men between the ages of 17 to 30 who are normally sound physically and mentally, the marines extend an invitation to get into your "fighting clothes." We know you are in the mood!

We promise to have you on your way to a training base within 24 hours after enlistment!

Here's your chance. Apply to the nearest marine recruiting office today.

WHENCE LEAD I?

'Twas a sheep, not a lamb, that strayed away
In the parable Jesus told;
A grown up sheep, that was gone astray,
From the ninety and nine in the fold.

Out on the hilltop in the cold
'Twas a sheep the good shepherd sought;
And back to the flock, safe into the fold,
'Twas a sheep the good shepherd brought.

And why for the sheep should we earnestly long
And earnestly hope and pray?
Because there is danger, if they go wrong;
They will lead the lambs astray.

For the lambs will follow the sheep, you know,
Wherever the sheep may stray,
When the sheep go wrong it will not be long
Till the lambs are as wrong as they.

And so with the sheep we earnestly plead
For the sake of the lambs today;
If the lambs be lost, what a terrible cost
Some sheep will have to pay.

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER
By DR. BOB JONES, Rector of ROBINSON COLLEGE, Cleveland, Tenn.

"Preach unto it the preaching that I bid thee." This is what God said to Jonah when He sent him to Nineveh, a great and wicked city. God had a special message for Nineveh. This message was a message of warning. The clouds of God's wrath were gathering. He was about ready to pour out His judgment. Under the preaching of Jonah the city repented. Even the king took off his robe of royalty, covered himself with sackcloth, and sat in ashes. Nineveh was saved.

No man in his own wisdom has a saving message for our day. But God has a message. He would have men repent and believe the Gospel and accept His Son who bore the sins of the world in His body on the cross. God offers men a plan. Man is rejecting that plan and trying out his own schemes. No wonder the world is drenched in blood. Many of the preachers who stand in our pulpits instead of giving God's Gospel message, have been giving some little social theme that they learned in school.

Men need a Savior; they need somebody who can regenerate them and give them life and victory. Jesus can do it. He is able to save unto the uttermost all who come to God by Him. Having been tempted He is able to succor men who are tempted. He is able to keep men from falling and to present them faultless in the presence of God. There is salvation in no other name. Christ is not one of the world's saviors. He is the world's only Savior. Christianity is not just one of the world's religions. It is the only religion that offers a Savior who can deliver men from sin.

There will be no permanent peace in this world until Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace, reigns on this earth.

The Meaning
Boy—Dad, what is meant when they say "beastly weather?"

Kentucky Farmers Boost Crop Profits

CHICAGO. — Treating Kentucky farm manure with superphosphate will help provide a balanced supply of plant food that can be produced at a low cost, according to a statement issued here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

Such a measure, says the statement, will improve the soil fertility, provide a sufficient quantity of the vitally important plant food elements—nitrogen, phosphorus and potash," the statement explains. "Moreover, today the average farm produces only a limited amount of manure. Hence it is necessary to add commercial fertilizers to reinforce the soil building qualities of the manure. It has been found that 20 per cent superphosphate provides an ideal addition to manure as a means of increasing the yield of crops.

help increase crop production and boost profits.
"By itself, manure does not pro-

How to Apply.
"There are a number of ways of adding the superphosphate to the manure. The method may vary according to farm conditions, but it should be carried on continuously—fall, winter, spring and summer.

"One method of treatment is to add the superphosphate to the manure in the spreader as it goes out onto the field. Another is to add it as the manure is stored.

"Perhaps the simplest and most effective method is to scatter one or two pounds of superphosphate per animal per day in the gutter or trough behind the animal where the manure is collected. In this way the superphosphate is distributed more evenly through the mixture.

"The superphosphate not only acts to preserve much of the manure's valuable plant food elements that might otherwise be lost but adds to the manure an element in which it is originally most lacking—phosphoric acid. The superphosphate likewise prevents the loss of nitrogen in manure by absorbing the liquid ammonia and thus halting its escape into the air in the form of ammonia gas."

How to 'Enlarge' Kentucky Farms for War Output

CHICAGO.—How Kentucky farmers can "enlarge" their farms to meet increasing war-time demands without incurring the hazards of over-expansion was described in a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"The secret lies not in buying more land but in making the present acreage do a better production job," the statement declares. "This means following a soil management program that will raise the land's fertility level.

"Even in the most productive areas the average farm can usually be enlarged the equivalent of 10 per cent, and sometimes as much as 50 per cent, through intelligent soil treatment, including the use of fertilizer.

"In combination with other sound farming practices the use of fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash is essential in stepping up the soil's productive capacity. Such a practice not only has an immediate result in increasing the per acre yield of crops needed in the nation's war effort, but represents an important long range soil conservation measure. It like-

Only through sound soil management and the replacement of needed plant foods can bumper crops be assured.
wise means lower production costs and improved crop quality. The amount of fertilizer applied per acre and the formula selected will depend on the crop being grown

Vegetable Vitamins

Do you know your garden?
Vitamin A, an important factor in the general well-being of the body, is present in most of the vegetables. Healthy grown-ups need 3,000 to 5,000 International Units daily; growing children and adolescents, 8,000 to 10,000. Careful cooking causes very little loss of this vitamin. Usually good sources are:

Vegetable	Average Serving in an
Spinach	25,000
Kale	20,000
Turnip Greens	10,000
Beet tops	9,000
Spouting Broccoli	10,000
Swiss Chard	9,000
Collard Greens	9,000
Green Pepper	5,000
Yellow Squash	4,000
Green Lettuce	3,000
Carrot	2,100
Chinese Cabbage	1,000
Ripe Tomato Juice	1,000
Green Peas	1,000
Green Snap Beans	1,000
Yellow Sweet Corn	1,000

Many vegetables supply fair amounts of the "appetite" vitamin, B-1 also known as the releaser of body energy. Under average conditions, healthy grown-ups should have 300 to 400 International Units each day, growing children and adolescents, 400 to 700. Careful cooking causes very little loss. If the cooking water is used all leafy vegetables are fairly good sources. Two legumes are unusually rich in B-1: green peas contain 140 International Units in an average serving; green lima beans, 115.

Your garden is an important source of vitamin C, the scurvy-preventer. Healthy grown-ups under average conditions require 800 to 1,200 International Units every day; children almost as much. The following contain particularly large amounts when eaten raw and fresh: tomato is the one exception in retaining vitamin C to any extent after cooking:

Vegetable	International Units in an Average Serving
Green Young Cabbage	322
Fresh Spinach	750
Red Pepper	1,000
Green Pepper	618
Cauliflower	1,500
Tomato	600
Turnip white or yellow	250 to 300
Paranip	450
Lettuce	210
Green Onions	275

Master Commissioner's Sale

MORGAN CIRCUIT COURT, KY.
NOTICE OF SALE
Commercial Bank, West Liberty, a corporation, Plaintiff
Vs.
Stanley Caskey, Lynn B. Wells, H. W. Carpenter, Math Lewis, Federal Land Bank, Louisville, Ky., Frank Lewis, Bert Caskey, and L. C. Caskey, Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Morgan Circuit Court, rendered at the rule day, June 2, 1942, in the above styled cause, I will offer for sale at the front door of the courthouse in West Liberty, Ky., on Monday, the 22nd day of June, 1942, at 10 o'clock a.m., or thereabouts, upon a credit of six months, the following described property, to wit: Three tracts of real estate land:

Tract No. 1. Situated in Neal Valley and further bounded and described as follows: seven-eighths (7-8) interest in said tract, bounded on the north by the lands of Coiza Helton, bounded on the east by the lands of Coiza Helton and Shelve Elam, bounded on the south by the lands of Shelve Elam and Willie Spurlock and the county road, bounded on the west by the lands of Willie Spurlock and James M. Helton, and containing 33 acres to be the same more or less, and being the same land formerly owned by Booker Osborn, and secured by first parties by deed from various heirs of Booker Osborn, that are of record in the Morgan county clerk's office, West Liberty, Ky.

Tract No. 2. A five-sixths (5-6) undivided interest in one house and lot near West Liberty, Ky., that is bounded as follows: bounded on the north by the land of Caleb Williams, bounded on the east by the lands of C. K. Stacy, bounded on the south by the lands of C. M. Keyser and the county road, and bounded on the west by the lands of C. M. Keyser and the county road, and being the same land that was secured from J. Dennis by deed which is of record in the Morgan county clerk's office, West Liberty, Ky.

Tract No. 3. Bounded on the north by the lands of Henry Lewis and the Licking River, bounded on the east by the lands of G. W. Potter and the Licking River, bounded on the south by the lands of Willie Spurlock, and bounded on the west by the lands of Frank Lewis and Math Lewis, containing 145 acres, to be the same more or less, and being the same land conveyed to first parties by deed from L. P. Haney and wife, Joe C. Stamper and wife, and J. M. Caskey and Rebecca Jane Caskey, his wife, of record in the Morgan county clerk's office in West Liberty, Ky.

It is further considered and adjudged by the court that Tract No. 1 and No. 2 be sold second and the proceeds of said sale be applied to the judgments of debt herein, and in the event that this is insufficient to pay the same that Tract No. 3 be sold subject to adjudged mortgage of the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, Ky., being sold to satisfy the judgment in favor of Commercial Bank, Lynn B. Wells, Math Lewis, Frank Lewis, H. W. Carpenter, Federal Land Bank, Louisville, Ky., Bert Caskey, and L. C. Caskey. For further information see judgment in the Morgan Circuit Court.

The purchaser will be required to execute bond, bearing 6 percent interest from date, with approved security for the purchase money.

This 3rd day of June, 1942.
HARLEN MURPHY, Master Commissioner Morgan Circuit Court.
Lynn B. Wells, Attorney.

GHOST PLANE

By ARTHUR STRINGER W. H. U. SERVICE

THE STORY SO FAR: Because he and his partner, Cruger, need the money to keep Norland Airways in business, Alan Slade has agreed to fly a supposed scientist named Frayne to the Anawotot country in search of the breeding ground of the trumpeter swan. Slade's suspicions about Frayne are aroused when he watches the swan-hunter and his partner, Karnell, put their supplies on the plane. They appear to be carrying prospectors' equipment. While in town on an errand Alan goes with Lynn Morlock, daughter of the local doctor, to give first aid treatment to a flyer hurt in a fight. The flyer is Slim Tumstead, who has already lost his license for drinking and who, to Slade's displeasure, appears to know all about Frayne's expedition and about the Lockheed Cruger bought with the money Frayne paid them. During that night the Lockheed is stolen by a masked man who heads north in the plane. Slade, en route to the Anawotot with Frayne and Karnell, runs out of gas and is forced to land near the camp of his prospectors friends, Zeke and Minty, whose one interest is gold. Frayne shows no interest in either gold or the black egg-shaped object Minty has just told him is pitchblende.

New continue with the story.

CHAPTER VII

"It was for this, I take it, that you came into such empty country," Frayne quietly suggested.

Minty laughed.

"Not on your life, stranger. It's only the good old yellow metal I'll ever get me and Zeke steamed up to the bolin' point."

"Of course," said the other. He inspected his nails and snapped shut his knife blade. "But there is more of what you call pitchblende in this territory?"

"Oodles of it," chimed in the quavery-voiced Zeke. "The dang stuff bothers us in our strippin'."

"From what you say," observed Frayne, "I assume it to be some sort of mineral. But I remain unenlightened as to either its use or its value."

Minty, however, was not to be sidetracked.

"If you'd been around Great Bear for a spell," that old sourdough was saying as he reached for the egg of pitchblende, "you'd sure have seen 'em scramble' for this stuff like a she-bear scramble' for a honey tree. Goin' down through five hundred feet o' rock for it! And then totin' it three thousand miles to that Port Hope plant where it takes sixty tons o' chemicals to git one gram o' what they want out of it!"

The ornithologist's reaction to that statement seemed perfunctory. He merely shifted back a little from the heat of the stove.

"For this, stranger," pursued the indignant Zeke, "is what they git radium from. And radium's worth just thirty-five thousand smackers a gram."

"But such things, my friends, stand remote from the field of my immediate interest," maintained the quiet-voiced ornithologist.

"Same here," concurred Minty. "Seem' it takes million-dollar machinery to squeeze a pinprick o' color out of a trainload of ore. And the surface pitchblende in this district, that assay-office sharp reported, ain't as rich in radium as the deep-lyin' Great Bear stuff. What this seems t' have, accordin' to assay, is an overdose o' helium."

"I know what helium is, of course," Frayne admitted with an accruing note of irritation. "But I am not interested in such things."

Slade felt the need of putting in his oar.

"You get more than helium, Minty," he announced, "and more than radium. You get uranium. And, in pitchblende like that, uranium is just about a million times more abundant than radium."

"And what good's uranium?" demanded Minty.

"It's the key," said Slade, "that's going to unlock the new Age of Power."

Frayne's gaze wandered about the cabin.

"You are no longer young," he observed. "Life owes you a little comfort."

"We'll git it, later on," conceded Minty. "And when me and this leather-gulleted old skillet pal o' mine strike Outside you'll sure see us hittin' the high spots."

"That is a possibility which might be easily achieved," observed their quiet-voiced visitor.

"I don't git you, stranger," said Zeke.

"Supposing," pursued Frayne, "somebody should buy you out, pay you well for what claim you have here and take over this camp you have spent so much time and labor in making comfortable?"

Slade smiled a little at the manner in which the newcomer once more seemed intent on buying up a right-of-way. But the pilot sat silent, conscious of the covert glance that passed between the two old sourdoughs.

"Who'd be doin' that?" demanded Minty.

Frayne's abstracted smile seemed fortified with some unparaded power.

"I might," he said after a moment of silence.

Slade was not surprised by the prompt hardening of the two weathered old faces. He knew, even before it came, what the answer would be.

"We're set here," said Zeke, "and we're a-goin' to stick it out to the end."

She lingered on the rock point and looked up at the aerial migration.

Slade got up from his chair and crossed to the door.

"I'll have a look at my ship," he explained, "before we turn in for the night. And if you two old bushwhackers will rustle us an early breakfast we'll push off at sunup."

But Slade, as he made his way down to the lake front, was troubled by some small voice of uncertainty that refused to articulate itself.

Then his thoughts went to other things. For on the shore point beside the moored plane he saw the huge figure of Karnell, with the hooded pigeon cage beside him.

"Feeding them, I suppose?" Slade questioned as he bent lower.

At the same time that he saw the cage was empty he heard the guttural voice beside him.

"They got away," mumbled Karnell. "They slipped off, before I could stop them."

Slade studied him for a moment.

"That's just too bad," he observed. And in spite of the quick and hostile glance of the other man he was able to laugh a little.

Yet that sense of being enmeshed in movements that were unpredictable returned to him the next morning when, a brief half-hour after his take-off, his passenger barked out an unexpected command to land.

With one hand Frayne held his binoculars poised; with the other he pointed to a lake that lay off to the left, framed in its encircling sprawl of spruce ridges.

"That," he announced, "is where we shall land."

"Why there?" asked Slade.

"I think," said the ornithologist, "I spotted a trumpeter swan."

Slade's one-sided smile seemed an announcement of his doubts as to the truth of that claim. But he remembered Cruger's warning about pilots not being supposed to wonder.

"Okay," said Slade as he turned into the wind and dropped lower. "But you're still a long jump from the Anawotot."

He could hear the mumble of foreign voices as his ship lost headway and drifted slowly in to the shoreline.

He saw the massive-shouldered Karnell wade ashore with an ax in his hand. Two minutes later he could hear the forest stillness ring with the familiar music of an ax blade against tough northern spruce trunks.

The sullen giant seemed to know just what was expected of him. In less than half an hour he had his spruce poles trimmed and lashed together in a neatly made landing platform. His movements, Slade observed, were made with the automatic precision one might expect from a military engineer.

Slade sat on a sun-bleached rock and lit a cigarette. He sat there with an achieved air of remoteness, watching the swan-hunter as he made ready to land his equipment.

Then the bush pilot's casual gaze wandered out to the empty ridges that ended in an equally empty skyline.

"A nice place to summer," he observed.

Frayne turned and faced him. And when Slade caught the unexpected flash of fire that came from behind the bifocal glasses he realized how some ghostly armistice between him and his passenger had ended. He didn't like the man, and he never would.

"When you are interested in more than engines," that passenger was proclaiming, "you will perhaps learn that uncomfortable localities quite often have undisclosed advantages."

Slade didn't quite know what that proclamation meant. But his smile was condoning as he tossed his cigarette end into the lake and rose to his feet.

"I guess you're right, Doctor," he said with a casualness that carried a note of insolence. "And here's where I pass out of the picture. But before I leave you to your swans' eggs I'd like to tip you off to just one thing. My interest sometimes extends beyond engines."

And this time, apparently, it was the man of science leaning out from the cabin hatch who didn't quite know what the speaker meant.

Lynn could feel spring in the air. Against a softening sky she could see eiders and snow geese, in vees, heading for their breeding tarns between the slowly greening muskegs. Every swale and slough was noisy with mating whistles and waveys and loons. But that clamorous love-making failed to lighten her heart. Even the sight of her father, mooring his plane between two saddled-backs in Ivituk Inlet, failed to take the cloud from her brooding hazel eyes.

"What's on your mind?" questioned the Flying Padre as he joined her on the rock point.

"I'm worried about Alan," she admitted. "We haven't had word about him getting out of that Anawotot country."

The Padre laughed.

"That cloud-wrangler can take care of himself," he proclaimed with slightly forced blitheness. "I've been shooting out messages from Fort Norman to the Pelly, telling him what supplies to fly in as soon as he's free."

"Then why doesn't he come?" "He's got his work to do, the same as the rest of us," was the Padre's reply to that. "And here's where we get busy. I've got to change the dressing on Ukeresak's leg wound and pull a couple of teeth for his glamour girl of the igloos."

Lynn watched her father as he strode up to their rough-boarded surgery.

But instead of following him she lingered on the rock point and looked up at the aerial migration above her.

Those relentless wings made her think of the equally relentless advance of the white man, the steady and stubborn northward trek of pioneers in their search for earth's bright-colored metals. It was affecting more than the wild life of the country. It seemed to disrupt both the modes and the mores of the natives, breaking up their tribal traditions and leaving them more and more dependent on the palefaces who took their hunting grounds away from them. Both the Eskimo and the Indian, her work along those scattered littoral villages had taught her, were a perishing people.

Yet she liked these people. They so stubbornly claimed their human right to survive; they stood so valiant in their fight against hunger and cold. They were, she felt, the most courageous people she had ever known. They demanded so little of life that a plug of trade tobacco could make them happy for a week, a mouth-organ could turn a funeral into a fiesta, a bright-colored handkerchief could bring raptures to a sloop-eyed face under its well-oiled locks.

Lynn recalled the expression of the girl Kogaluk, after bringing her aged father, whose hunting days had been ended by blindness, to the Flying Padre. Old Umanak had undoubtedly lost his vision. But a quick examination by the man of medicine had shown that the blindness was due to cataracts which an operation might remove. The Eskimo girl still had faith in the father whom she had to lead about by the hand, like a child.

"Tim good hunter," she had said in her hesitating pidgin-English. "Him always good hunter until two winters ago."

"What would you say," questioned Dr. Morlock, "if I flew him out to Fort Smith and brought him back as good a hunter as ever?"

"I say you work good magic," said the daughter of the wilderness. But difficulties had interposed. Umanak had no wish to enter the devil-bird of the white doctor and be flown away from his people. Rather than be taken away from the friendly fish smell and the husky howls of his home he would prefer remaining with darkened eyes.

"I could patch the old boy up here," the Padre had explained, "if we only had the equipment."

"Then why not get it?" "Perhaps Alan could fly in with it," Lynn had suggested, coloring a little before her father's smile of comprehension.

"So it's Alan you want?" "I want to see Umanak cured," she had contended. "And I'd stay on, of course, to look after him."

"Then we'll take a chance," the Flying Padre had agreed.

If you're concerned about what sort of gift to send a friend or relative in one of Uncle Sam's branches of the services, your worries are over. If he smokes a pipe or rolls his own, the answer is a pound of tobacco. Numerous surveys made among soldiers, sailors, marines, and Coast Guardsmen show that tobacco ranks first on his gift list. Local tobacco dealers are featuring Prince Albert in the pound can for service men. Prince Albert, the world's largest-selling smoking tobacco, is a big favorite among many men in the service. —Adv.

Somehow Tramp Knew He Wasn't Addressing George

A tramp, coming down a country road in England, stopped a moment in meditation before a sign on which was written: "George and the Dragon." He then entered the tavern to which the sign was affixed and asked for the landlady.

"Noble lady," he began, "have you a meal and some old clothes to spare for a poor, hungry man?"

"Not for the likes of you. Now go!" she said sternly. Then, seeing he desired to get another word with her, "Well!"

"Then please, ma'am, could I speak to George?"

The War isn't fought in Fox Holes alone

IT'S fought in the mind. It's fought with a will to win. It's fought with a belief in a cause worth dying for.

That will, that belief, is known as morale.

Our enemies have had years of indoctrination. They have been conditioned to believe themselves part of a "new order" . . . to which the contribution of their lives is small but all-important. They believe themselves cogs in a vast machine.

Our soldiers do not fight that way—because they do not live that way. Theirs is the belief in the sanctity of the individual.

To maintain their morale in the American way, the USO has devoted all its time and energy since practically the beginning of conscription.

It has done this by staffing and maintaining club houses near all training camps and in our outlying possessions from Alaska to the Caribbean.

Today its work is far greater than ever, its need for funds to carry on more than doubled.

The USO needs your help more than ever before!

High government and military officials—including General MacArthur—have praised the work done by the USO and recognized its importance in the war effort.

But it needs recognition from you—recognition in the way of dollars and cents. For the six national agencies which comprise the USO are publicly supported.

Now above all times, to make your dollars count, give to the USO!

Send your contribution to your local USO Committee or to National Headquarters, USO, Empire State Building, New York, N. Y.

Treat Constipation This Gentler Way!

Many folks say that almost as bad as constipation are habits cathartics and purges. That's because many medicinal laxatives work this way: they either prod the intestines into action or draw moisture into them from other parts of the body.

Now comes news of a gentler and pleasanter way of treating constipation, for the millions of people with normal intestines whose trouble is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. This way is by eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, a crisp, delicious cereal, and drinking plenty of water. ALL-BRAN, unlike many medicinal laxatives, acts principally on the contents of the colon and helps you to have easy, normal elimination. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, better see your doctor.

STOP LOST WAGES DUE TO FLY-TIME SICKNESS...USE TANGLEFOOT FLY PAPER

Every time a fly lights on a dirty place he picks up nasty disease germs. Then he flies in and lights on your food. He leaves those germs on the food and you eat the germs. Then you and the family are sick. Then you lose time, and then you have bills to pay. That is why any good Doctor will say—

STAY HEALTHY! GET TANGLEFOOT FLY PAPER

—at Grocery, Hardware and Drug Stores. Sickens is expensive, and sickness from flies can be stopped in your home. Why pay wages to flies, when Tanglefoot Fly Paper costs so little? Use Tanglefoot Fly Paper.

Sargasso Sea

The Sargasso sea, a part of the North Atlantic which covers an area as large as that of the continental United States, is unique in that it is relatively motionless and that it far exceeds in size any other water or land area in the world devoted exclusively to the growth of a single species of plant, which is a floating seaweed, says Collier's.

Incidentally, this weed is also unique because it grows at the tips as it dies at the base.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of all wastes and poisons. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed by the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Boost Sub Destroyer Output Rather Than Merchant Ships . . . United Allies Staging War of Nerves . . .

Bell Syndicate—WNU Features.

WASHINGTON.—While the decision has not been made, it is highly unlikely that President Roosevelt will revise upward his demands of construction of merchant ships.

The classifications, using precious steel which will be raised, are aimed at destroying submarines rather than replacing losses from submarines.

It will be noted that most of the ships sent to the bottom by submarines have not been in convoys—nor in the patrolled lanes. That is one reason for the gasoline shortage in the Eastern states. Obviously there have been no convoys of tankers bringing oil from the Gulf ports to the East.

The only important protection afforded along that long coastwise route has been by airplane spotting. It is true that this has resulted in the sinking of some undersea boats, but it has not proved very sound insurance for the tankers.

In contrast, the supply ships transporting our men and supplies to the various theaters of war, from the Arctic coast of Russia to Australia and all way stations, have suffered hardly at all.

This is the logic behind the President's present thought that it is better, for the time being, to put any surplus steel that may be available over and above the objectives already laid down into destroyers, torpedo boats, corvettes, etc., rather than into merchant ships.

One for One

One destroyer, corvette or torpedo boat may destroy a submarine which otherwise might sink a dozen merchant ships. Of the three types none uses more steel than a single merchant ship; the corvette uses considerably less, and the torpedo boat very little indeed.

There is another argument for building more submarine destroyers rather than U-boat fodder. This is that when a merchant ship is sent to the bottom there is frequently a loss of life. Nothing comparable to when a ship is lost in a naval engagement, for as a result of present war conditions frequently the majority of a crew of a warship is lost.

But too many trained seamen in the merchant service are being killed. And they are very difficult to replace. So it is quite conceivable that one corvette or destroyer might save the lives of a considerable number of merchant seamen, as well as merchant ships.

Allies Permit News 'Leaks'

To Create Confusion

During the period known as the "phony war," before Germany overran the Low Countries and Norway, and short-circuited the Maginot line, Hitler was doing to the French and British what Roosevelt and Churchill are now trying to do to Hitler.

No one knew, then, what Hitler was going to do. So Hitler utilized the time by finding out precisely what the French and British—not to mention the Belgians and Dutch, would do in every possible contingency.

Over the many months of the "phony war," Hitler thus acquired a vast amount of information as to just what to expect when "Der Tag" came.

As a matter of fact their peoples, those in Belgium and Holland, were very much divided. Many of them thought they would be able to maintain their neutrality throughout the war. It is of record that Hitler sold guns to the Dutch for gold, and then captured the guns later on.

Naturally the parallel is not exact. There is no maneuvering of an invasion force up and down a frontier, while the helpless victims on the other side, hoping to maintain peace, scramble for a defensive distribution of their forces. But the effect is very similar, from a military standpoint.

News is allowed to leak out—in fact it is broadcast—that a "very large" American expeditionary force has landed in Northern Ireland. A few days later it is announced officially that another large Canadian force has landed in Britain.

We do not know precisely how large this United States force now in the British Isles (counting Ulster as part of that category) may be. We only know it is sizable.

It is assumed by officials here that Berlin knows precisely how many United States troops are waiting there for the "second front," and what their equipment and training is. It is also assumed that Berlin knows how many Canadian troops are in Britain, and how many British troops are available.

What Berlin does not know is where this force is going to strike, or when. It might be anywhere from the North Cape, or beyond, to Murmansk, down to Italy.
